Minoo Parivash : Don't Let Go of the Rug! before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Don't Let Go of the Rug!:

It's no secret that kids don't like being told what to do without being given a reason. "Because I told you so" just doesn't cut it anymore. The aim of this story is to teach kids the importance of staying focused in whatever task they do. A secondary lesson is teaching kids to question what they don't understand, opening the door for better communication skills with their parents and teachers, and for grown-ups to provide the proper answers. This approach will result in better relationships, trust, and communication skills.
