About the Author DyingToKnow.info is the creation of Julian J. Blum an 89 year old retired Real Estate Broker and writer who wanted to give his wife as much information as possible about their affairs and his wishes for his funeral, etc.. Although there were guidelines available, none were comprehensive enough to satisfy all the information he felt should be conveyed, and what was supplied was in great detail and rather somber. It dawned on him that death, like life, could be dealt with in a humorous way and with the skills of a writer who had contributed articles in the Real Estate Press, The Human Services, and The Phoenix Center City Magazine, Julian decided to try his hand at creating a much needed book using comic illustrations and simple explanations to describe serious issues. This resulted in his writing a very complete manual for this daunting task. His slogan became: We all gotta go sometime, so lets mix a little humor with a serious subject! DYING TO KNOW.INFO does just that!
