Most books I've seen are not very informative, full of useless filler, or outdated. This book is loaded with helpful information. Although we have done all our paperwork..wills, health care, etc.. this book points out ways to ensure you avoid probate and save tax dollars when a partner passes. Although there are parts of book that will probably not apply to every situation there is much information that will apply to all DP's. Definately worth the price.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Wonderful and RARE Information!By ShahzeelIn 29 states, it is legal for a law firm to not represent a client based solely on that client's sexual orientation (or even perceived sexual orientation). This is why I was so happy when I came across this great book. I was referred to this book at an event where a member of Jeff's office was present. As we began to speak, the office member told me about Jeff's dedicated involvement in Estate Planning; chiefly, with domestic partners. It's a great read, and it's very easy to read (much like Jeff's other books as well)

Don't Fall Victim to Discriminatory Laws! Not when you and your partner can do something about it. You and your partner can empower yourselves though the proven legal techniques described in the book Estate Planning for Domestic Partners: The Legal Secrets You Need to Know to Protect Your Partner and Your Future. Written by a prominent partner protection planning attorney, this valuable information can help you navigate around the restrictive laws that prevent you and your partner from gaining full marriage and tax rights by using other legal principles such as contracts, trusts, and powers of attorney.

About the AuthorJeffrey G. Marsocci was born in Fort Worth, Texas, and raised in Lincoln, Rhode Island, where he graduated from Mount Saint Charles Academy High School. He received his Bachelor's degree in Business from Hofstra University, and two years later earned his law degree from the same university. In 2004, he received a Certificate Degree in Non-Profit Management from Duke University, and has earned his Legal Master of Estate Preservation designation from the Abts Institute for Estate Preservation. Jeff also serves as a member of the Legal Council for The Estate Plan, a nationally recognized estate preservation company headed by Henry Abts, trust guru and author of The Living Trust. Jeff has led his own firm in Raleigh, North Carolina, since 1996, focusing on the areas of Wills, Trusts and Life Estate Planning with a concentration in assisting domestic partners and other unmarried couples. He is also a founding member of The National Institute for Domestic Partner Estate Planning, and he frequently participates in programs to educate attorneys, financial advisors and accountants on estate planning issues. Jeff and his wife Kathleen are active Kiwanis members, working with the college-based service organization Circle K throughout North Carolina and South Carolina. Jeff and Kathy also each received the President's Call to Service Award for performing more than 4,000 hours of service during their lifetimes.
