Review Martin Kranitz is the Director of the National Center for Mediation Education, and the National Institute for Conflict Resolution. In Getting Apart Together: The Couple's Guide To A Fair Divorce Or Separation, Kranitz offers practical, experienced, and authoritative advice and guidance drawing upon his many years as an expert divorce mediator. Kranitz provides the reader with a wealth of practical, helpful exercises, charts and worksheets enabling him or her to develop an effective, strategy for amicable separation and/or dissolution to the marriage. Getting Apart Together is very highly recommended for the non-specialist general reader seeking to avoid the exorbitant costs of attorney fees while establishing fair and equitable ground rules and agendas for co-parenting, custody, financial support, property division, taxes, and all the other aspects that must be attended to in the dissolution of the marriage.

Guess which couple got more of what they wanted: Charles and Charlotte, who worked out a negotiated settlement together? Or John and Joyce, who let the court settle their differences? Couples who want to negotiate their own divorce settlements now have a comprehensive self-help guide, complete with ground rules, agendas for discussion, sample forms, and options for divorce mediation without "bloodshed." Not quite a "do-it-yourself" manual you'll still need an attorney but packed with real-couple examples of successful agreements on Co-Parenting, Custody, Financial Support, College Planning, Property, Insurance, Taxes. An organized, thorough guide to the important issues for every separating couple, and an effective aid for those who seek professional mediation. "Your chances of getting the outcome you want are best when you take control of the decision-making process," says Martin Kranitz, Director of the National Center for Mediation Education in Annapolis, Maryland. Couples can work out their own decisions, if they know what to talk about.

Comprehensive perspective on parenting issues for separating/divorcing couples. Should be required reading for separating couples with children. Patricia Miller, Esq. , President, National Institute for Conflict Resolution
