Louis J. Kotz : Global Environmental Constitutionalism in the Anthropocene before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Global Environmental Constitutionalism in the Anthropocene:

There is persuasive evidence suggesting we are on the brink of human-induced ecological disaster that could change life on Earth as we know it. There is also a general consensus among scientists about the pace and extent of global ecological decay, including a realisation that humans are central to causing the global ecological crisis. This new epoch has been called the Anthropocene. This book seeks to answer this central question: from the perspective of the Anthropocene, what is environmental constitutionalism and how could it be extrapolated to formulate a global framework? In answering this question, Louis Kotz offers the first systematic conceptual framework for global environmental constitutionalism in the epoch of the Anthropocene.
